FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1893.

The Message.

(Boston Advertiser.)

Therefore he closes the message, or rather begins the closing paragraph, by earnestly recommending "the prompt repeal of the provisions of the act passed July 14, 1890, authorizing the purchase of silver bullion."

So far so good. Regarding this great question the President has spoken in no uncertain tone, has spoken in accordance with the undoubted sentiment of the most intelligent portion of the people in nearly every section of the country, has vigorously and perfectly re-echoed the voice of manufacturing and commercial interests as expressed by boards of trade, chambers of commerce, clearing house associations, individual business men and leading newspapers East, West, North and South. But it is impossible to avoid, nevertheless, a sense of disappointment. The message is open to criticism, not so much for what it contains as for what it does not contain. What it contains, with the exception of some perfunctory and Cleveladesque commonplaces about the "immediate and permanent importance" of "tariff reform," is mainly excellent. What it does not contain is definite recommendations of a positive nature. There is something like timidity or else want of settled conviction in that respect.

There is a most striking contrast between the firm, assured tread with which the President traverses the ground of repeal and the nerveless, halting, hasty way in which he deals with the question of beneficial legislation. He is strong as adamant about what ought to be undone. He is feeble as putty about what ought to be done. He exhibits better hind-sight than foresight. He devotes rather more than 2000 words to pointing out the bad legislation of July, 1890. Beyond, asking the repeal of that act he has to spare barely 32 words in which to suggest good legislation for August, 1893. Here are the 32 words: "And that other legislative action may put beyond all doubt or mistake the intention and ability of the government to fulfil its pecuniary obligations in money universally recognized by all civilized countries." How has those words are, two of them are superfluous. "The intention" of the government in that regard is already beyond all doubt or mistake.

It is declared in a clause of the act of July 14, 1890, which clause the President cites elsewhere in his message, "a clause that he does not ask to have repealed." No fresh act of Congress could more clearly declare and define that "intention." It is the "ability" that needs to be made evident not ability. In the abstract, for that has never been doubted anywhere in the civilized world for the past 26 years, but ability in the concrete. It is for Congress to act, legislate that all the world may know precisely how the government is to find instant, constant and complete means to fulfil its pecuniary obligations in money universally recognized by all civilized countries. There is in the message a most deplorable silence on this most vital topic.

Does President Cleveland favor the issuance of bonds to whatever extent may be necessary? Does he favor granting to national banks the entirely safe and greatly helpful privilege of putting forth notes up to the full amount of the bonds deposited by those banks with the government as security for redemption? Has he any plans of his own, whereby the existing disturbances may be quelled and financial confidence restored? The people will search yesterday's message in vain for an answer to one or all of these questions. They are pertinent and pressing questions. According to our system of government it is the duty of the chief executive to recommend to Congress from time to time such legislation as in his judgment is needful. That duty cannot be discharged and dismissed by tacking on a few vague phrases to the end of a Presidential message. Mr. Cleveland ought to have done more than point out the object he should have indicated the means.

More sound than manly, he does not propose sweeping repeal of the act, but to save its valuable provisions. Wiser than many, he sees that positive action will be needed to put an end to the fear that new rulers may trample on old obligations. He does not suggest any sort of compromise, urges that "such relief as Congress can afford in the existing situation be afforded at once," and declares that "every day's delay in removing one of the plainest principal causes of the present state of things enlarges the mischief already done, and increases the responsibility of Government for its existence." These are manly and strong words, and they leave little disposition to suggest that the responsibility has rested with him since the 4th of March, and that every day's delay since that time might have been avoided if he had called Congress together. If mistaken in deferring action, he is plainly right now in asking Congress to do its part with promptness.

The reasoning which precedes this recommendation is forcible. It seems to him that all conditions favor prosperity, but "distrust and fear have sprung up," loans are greatly curtailed, and "loss and failure have involved every branch of business." It was not to be expected that the President would recognize that the proposed change of tariff, to which he again declares "every effort of the present Administration is pledged," has caused much of the trouble. At least he is right in saying that uncertainty regarding the currency is "one of the plain and principal causes" of disaster, and in urging that the existing "lack of confidence, however caused, is a menace which ought not for a moment to be disregarded." The absorption of all American silver production by purchase, he states with truth, has disappointed the advocates of silver coinage, who believed it "a certain guarantee of increase in price."

It has forced the Treasury to trench upon its gold bullion reserve for the first time, because "refusal to redeem the Treasury notes in gold would necessarily result in their discredit and depreciation as obligations payable only in silver and would destroy the parity between the two metals." This is a complete and honorable vindication of the policy which was adopted by the President's predecessor, which President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle in their first public statement on the subject indicated a disposition to change, but to which they have since manfully adhered.

It is also due to the President that right-thinking citizens, in a spirit of patriotism and not of partisanship, should promptly and fully recognize his honesty and courage in defining the act of July 14, 1890, which, in his words, "was the culmination of much agitation on the subject involved, and which may be considered a truce, after a long struggle, between the advocates of free silver coinage and those intending to be more conservative." The Democratic National platform of 1892 called this act a "cowardly makeshift," and Democratic partisans ever since have been using that epoch as a warrant for wholesale defamation. The President's exact statement of the fact is a fearless and wholesome rebuke of the slanders emitted by his own party, and as such, commands the admiration and approval of all who desire that a grave subject should be discussed with candor and sincerity.

[New York Morning Advertiser.]

Mr. Cleveland's message to Congress has the merit of being neither long nor thick. After summarizing what the newspapers have already said about the financial situation he asks Congress, unqualifiedly to repeal the Sherman law (so called) which requires the government to purchase a million dollars' worth of pig silver, per week, paying therefor new silver notes worth 100 cents on the dollar and which go at once into circulation. He says that our three years' experience under this law has been disastrous but he doesn't attempt to explain why. Furthermore he calls upon Congress to so legislate as to "put beyond all doubt or mistake the intention and the ability of the government to fulfil its pecuniary obligations in money universally recognized by all civilized countries." But he doesn't explain how this is to be done.

The message, on the whole, is a shilly-shally paper. The dangerous and alarming feature is found in this melancholy paragraph:

"It was my purpose to summon Congress in special session early in the coming September, that we might enter promptly upon the work of tariff reform which the true interests of the country clearly demand, which so large a majority of the people as shown by their suffrages, desire and expect, and to the accomplishment of which every effort of the present administration is pledged. But while tariff reform has lost nothing of its immediate and permanent importance, and must in the near future engage the attention of Congress, it has seemed to me that the financial condition of the country should at once, and before all other subjects, be considered by your honorable body."

That is to say, Mr. Cleveland hoped to have Congress at work next month ripping up the tariff. The fear and apprehension of the country caused him to call his Congress together to repeal a law which has about as much to do with the present distress and uneasiness as the name of the private car that Mr. Cleveland was hauled to Washington in last Saturday.

He has simply proposed tariff tinkering. If the silver business is disposed of at this special session he will set Congress to work in December on the tariff. The ripping up of the McKinley law is only postponed temporarily.

This notice is served upon every business man and manufacturer in the land. No man can make a contract three months ahead because he may not know what the price of any given material at that time may be. It is this menace which will paralyze every industry. Every business calamity which now befalls the country can surely be laid at the door of the Democratic party.

Big Endowment Policy.

One for in late auction an industrious ant was standing in the street part rounding up his corn a gain, when a somewhat jaded grasshopper happened along. "It's no use your asking pie for dessert, sport," the ant was at college, you are about to die. You have had a day time, I fear, at summer, while I have been toiling and saving. He was going to be a hard winter, and I am sorry for you, but as a cut dry you got of me. You ought to have been prudent like a wise ant." "Chirp," said the grasshopper, "all I have a big endowment life policy which matures next week. I'll try to worry along without any of your blamed advice or assistance. Good day."

Senate Adjourns to Monday After Reading of Journal.

A Proposition Formulated by the Anti-Silver Men.

A Conference Held at Secretary Carlisle's House.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. Immediately after the reading of yesterday's journal the Senate, by a vote of 39 to 78, adjourned until Monday. The negative votes were cast by the Republicans and the affirmative votes by the Democrats, reinforced by Senators from the silver producing States.

Anti-silver Proposition.

This evening a proposition was formulated by the anti-silver committee. The position is that the House proceed to consider the bill providing for the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, opportunity to be given to offer amendments providing for the free coinage of silver at a ratio to be agreed upon by the silver men, if that is possible, if votes to be taken upon the different ratios proposed.

If free coinage, at any ratio, be rejected, an amendment may be offered similar to the Bland bill of 1878, limiting the purchase of bullion and amount of coinage. This failing, a vote is to be taken upon the bill as introduced or unconditional repeal, the discussion to last ... weeks.

A conference was held to-night at the residence of Secretary Carlisle by nearly forty gentlemen, including the leaders of the anti-silverites. It was agreed to vote the affirmative on the propositions submitted by the anti-silver committee.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Dazzler."

"The Dazzler" is an uproariously funny farce full of amusing complications and the most comical situations. The fact that it is now in the third year of its career is sufficient evidence of this, for there are very few farce comedies that can stand more than one season's repetition. It is a theatrical event of more than ordinary note in its line, and will be seen at the Opera House on Monday next, when it makes its first appearance this season, by Grosgrove and Grant comedians. It has already won favor during the two seasons and is now presented for a third year, not only with its old prestige of success, but is brightened and new with novelties in songs, dances, situations and new faces.

Sudden Death.

Mr. F. E. Archer, a well known commercial traveler, in the employ of the cigar firm of A. Trailer & Co., of Boston, died very suddenly in this city early yesterday afternoon. He arrived in the city at noon and went to the Penobscot Exchange, going at once to his room. He prepared for dinner and had just stepped outside the door of his room, when he fell to the floor and expired in a few minutes, apoplexy being the cause of his death.

The remains were taken to Mr. Hunt's undertaking rooms, and will be sent this morning to Portland where he resided. Mr. Archer was well known among the business men of Bangor and his death will be regretted by many friends. His age was about forty-five years.

The steamer Sedgwick went to Bucksport and took an excursion from there yesterday, the party going to Fort Point and Castine. The fine boat is having a busy season.

The Y. P. S. C. E., at Stillwater, is to entertain the Penobscot Local Union of Christian Endeavor societies next Monday evening and an interesting programme will be carried out.

A number of the summer visitors at and about Pushaw Pond have formed a minstrel troupe known as Cooper's Minstrels and Wednesday evening went to the Bishop Homestead there and gave an entertainment and supper. The occasion was much enjoyed.

A large forest fire has been raging in the back portion of the town of Milford and doing great damage. It is reported to be in a great measure on land owned by ex-Governor Davis and a large number of men are fighting the flames. They have had a hard job, everything being so dry and a rainstorm would be very welcome.

Izaak Walton, author, angler, and father of fly fishing, who, in 1653 wrote the "Compleat Angler, or the Contemplative Man's Recreation," was born in Stafford, England, August 9th, 1593, and the 300th anniversary of his birth was appropriately observed at the Kineo House—what place more appropriate?—on Wednesday.

The steamer Penobscot, Capt. Otis Ingraham, reached this city in fine season, coming up to her wharf shortly before 1 o'clock in the afternoon. She had a good night down and made a first class trip, one of the best of the season, taking the amount of freight into consideration. She brought a good passenger list to Bangor and left many at the down river summer resorts.

Sheriff Lancaster brought from Old Town yesterday a man named John Brow and committed him to the county jail. He was arrested for stealing a pocketbook in Old Town and had spent part of the contents before he was taken into custody. The owner of the money offered to stay proceedings if the offender would repay him and pay the costs of the court as far as the proceedings were carried, but Brow did not have cash enough and none of his friends seemed disposed to aid him so he is now behind the bars on the hill.

Interesting Coming Event.

Few people who read have forgotten the stir caused a few years ago by the publication of Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur," a book which took like wild fire, and in a few months had achieved one of the greatest literary successes of the age, probably being surpassed in number of volumes sold only by "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "General Grant's Memoirs."

Bangor is to have the privilege next Monday evening at Grace church of reviewing the absorbing story with Rev. Dr. Packard, of Boston, who has traveled over the ground where the scenes are laid and will add to an eloquent verbal presentation, 120 views with an oxy-hydrogen light and with every detail carefully worked out.

This lecture is one that Bangor people can ill afford to lose. In other cities the lecture has been heard by the largest audiences and heartiest words of praise are on the lips of all who have heard it.

Thurston—Roundy.

Mr. Abram Roundy, for fifty years the pressman at the office of THE WHIG AND COURIER, gave away his youngest daughter, Mary Emma, in marriage last evening at their home on Howard street. The fortunate groom is Capt. Daniel P. Thurston, of Tremont, Me. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. M. Frost in the presence of the family and immediate friends.

The bride is a most estimable and talented lady, who has been actively useful in church and charitable work and has won for herself a host of friends whose best wishes accompany the happy couple.

A NOTABLE DAY

In the Way of Out-Door Sports.

Horse and Bicycle Races and Ball Game at Maplewood.

Twelve Mile Bicycle Road Race in the Morning.

Some Fine Contests and Very Interesting Features.

A day of interesting sports was furnished the people of this city yesterday and everything conspired to make the occasion a success, although the weather was terribly hot and it was much of a task reaching the scene of the events.

The sports were under the general management of Mr. Chris. Toole while the bicycle races were arranged by Mr. E. H. Dakin and Mr. C. H. Barstow. The trotting, bicycle races, 100 yards dash and base ball furnished a programme which was interesting in each event and gave a variety which entertained all the spectators in a pleasing way.

There was a good attendance at Maplewood Park in the afternoon and the grand stand was a comfortable retreat from the fierce rays of the sun. The sports began soon after two o'clock and it was seven o'clock before the wind up of the trotting.

The Horse Trots.

The 2.50 class was first called and seven horses responded. Glenwood was drawn, however, before the first heat so that there were six starters. Gray Eagle had the pole, Mona S. was second, Index third, Willie C. fourth, Fannie Withers fifth and Ansel W. sixth. It was a good race between Gray Eagle and Ansel W., but the latter proved too much for the gray gelding and won by a small margin.

There was a great deal of scoring for the second heat but the horses finally got away and as before it was between Gray Eagle and Ansel W., with a similar result, Ansel W. coming under the wire ahead without any difficulty. The third heat was also taken by Ansel W., Gray Eagle not doing any better than fourth place. The summary was as follows:

2.50 Class.

Ansel W., ro g, by Harbinger, A. R. Buck, Orland	1	1	1
Gray Eagle, gr g, by Gray Dan, H. W. Page, Bangor	2	2	4

38	1.17	1.55¾	2.32
39	1.16	1.56	2.37

There were three starters in the free-for-all and four heats were trotted. There was a long delay in getting this race started and the spectators got impatient. Elgin had the pole, with St. Lawrence second and Lady Franklin third. St. Lawrence took the first heat but Elgin had no difficulty afterwards in taking the other three heats and the race. The summary was as follows:

Free-for-all Class.

Elgin, b g, by Lothair, Jr., A. M. Pierce, Bangor	2	1	1	1
St. Lawrence, b g, by Gray Dan, W. G. Morrill, Pittsfield	1	2	2	2
Lady Franklin, b m, by Franklin, G. R. Palmer, East Dover	3	3	3	3

37	1.14	1.52	2.26¾

The 2.37 class developed some pretty rapid time and furnished considerable excitement. There were eight starters and the judges had much difficulty in getting them going, especially in the last heat when the jockeying resulted in incessant scoring. Juno Withers had a cinch on first place, taking the race in three straight heats. The summary was as follows:

2.37 Class.

Juno Withers, ch m, by Gen. Withers, Jr., N. G. Gould, Old Town	1	1	1
Claywood, ch g, by Van Helmont, A. M. Pierce, Bangor	2	3	2

37½	1.11¾	1.50	2.27¾
40	1.16	1.54½	2.30

Between heats the brown stallion Trenton trotted two half miles against time. At the first attempt the quarter was made in 40 seconds and the half in 1.20. The second trial resulted in faster time, the quarter being trotted in 39½, and the half in 1.17.

The judges were Thomas McAloon, starter; Charles F. Danforth, Capt. G. W. Reed and John A. Eastman.

Bicycle Races.

The first bicycle contest was the road race which occurred at 9 A. M. the course being from the Bangor House around the Hampden town pump and return a distance of about twelve miles. There was quite a large crowd of spectators about the hotel and vicinity.

The officials were J. A. Coulter, referee; C. H. Barstow, starter; E. M. Estabrook, clerk of course; E. H. Dakin, scorer; L. H. Davenport and G. L. Meyland, timers. The following wheelmen lined up for the start: A. J. Dyer, L. P. Swett, Harry E. Dahlberg, J. L. Foster, J. E. Buckley, W. E. Davis, W. M. Hunt, W. H. Brackett, E. A. Robinson, and Charles Lord.

Lord in starting came into collision with some of the other wheelmen and did not continue. The riders started off at a rapid pace and it was an interesting sight as the wheelmen dashed down the Hampden road bound for glory and prizes. Judges were stationed at the tin bridge and the Hampden pump.

The men finished in the order given above. Dyer's time was 33.17 2-5 minutes; Swett's was 34 minutes; Dahlberg's, 35.15¼ minutes and Foster's, 36.21 minutes. Dyer, the winner, lives in Lewiston and is one of the finest riders in the State. He receives a gold watch as the first prize. There were six prizes in all.

The races were continued at Maplewood Park in the afternoon and proved very interesting. The one mile novice was the first race and the result was as follows: W. L. Boynton, 1st; W. H. Brackett 2d; Charles Lord, 3rd; D. H. Buckley, 4th and R. P. Dowst, 5th. The time was 2.53 1-5 minutes. There were four prizes, the first being a Weston cyclometer.

The half mile race had for starters Harry E. Dahlberg, A. J. Dyer, L. P. Swett, W. M. Hunt, J. E. Buckley and D. H. Buckley, who finished in the order named. The time made by Dahlberg was 1.15 2-5, which is within three-fifths of a second of the best State record. The finish was quite exciting.

H. E. Harriman, C. H. Barstow and W. H. Brackett started in the one-quarter mile dash for novices. On the home stretch Brackett ran into the fence and he and his wheel were piled up together. He was fortunately uninjured. Harriman finished ahead of Barstow and took the first prize. No time was taken as the timers did not know that the start had been made.

The one mile handicap was very interesting from the manner in which Swett, the scratch man, mowed down his opponents who had a long start and won first place. The starters were L. P. Swett, champion of the State; H. E. Dahlberg, N. E. Smith, J. E. Buckley, D. H. Buckley, W. M. Hunt and C. H. Barstow and they finished in the order named. The time was 2.36.

There were two starters in the half mile race for the Queen City Wheel Club championship, Charles Lord and C. H. Barstow. Lord came in ahead of Barstow by a few feet, making the half mile in 1.26.

A. J. Dyer and L. P. Swett had a close rub in the consolation race of one mile, but Dyer was victorious. The time was slow. The quarter was made in .46, the half in 1.31, three-quarters in 2.16 and the mile in 2.59.

Mr. Harry Dahlberg met with a severe accident during the road race. While going down the steep hill below Stern's mill on the return he was thrown off his wheel and was badly bruised from head to foot. He was considerably in the lead at the time. He pluckily raced in the afternoon, however.

One Hundred Yards Dash.

The 100 yards dash had three contestants, Montgomery, Nickerson and Maguire. The sprinters ran fast and there was not a great space between them at the tape. Montgomery was first, Maguire second and Nickerson third. The time was 10¾ seconds.

THE BALL GAME.

Bangors Lead the Newports a Merry Chase and Win.

The Newports took a mighty brace in the last inning in the game with the Bangors at Maplewood Park yesterday afternoon during the horse races and bicycle contests, as Haynes let up in his pitching, the Bangors having a good lead up to the ninth, but up to that time the Bangors had no difficulty in keeping ahead of the visitors. The afternoon was hot (perhaps you noticed it) and the game was not called until after 3 o'clock but as the people were watching the horse and bicycle races they didn't mind the delay.

Mr. Cyrus Hamlin and Mr. Young, of Newport, were the umpires. It may be remarked here that the latter's judgment is not nearly as good as his intention to do satisfactory work. Rank decisions on his part were responsible for several runs credited the Newports. Little Maney, the Bangor wizard, was in the box for the home team, although he had a lame arm, and Hamlin caught. The Bangors took the field. The first three men to the bat for the visitors were struck out and then they looked discouraged.

Maney pitched two innings, doing fine work, and then retired, Haynes taking his place. Hamlin hurt his hand badly on a foul tip and Dolan came in to catch, which he did well. Haynes was a trifle wild at times, but did good work until the home team secured a long lead, when he eased up on pitching and gave the Newports straight balls. Haynes showed, however, that he can pitch good ball when there is a necessity for it. In the third the Bangors let out a notch and took a batting fit, making six base hits in succession, netting five runs. In the fourth White retired in favor of Russell, but the home team fixed him, too, and made six runs.

Then White went back with his lame arm and pluckily pitched the rest of the game. The visitors gave the local men rather a scare in their half of the ninth. Haynes gave them some easy ones to hit and they did it. Young made a two-bagger and White and Chase singles, bringing in three runs. Hamlin threw Meredith out at first, and J. Barnes struck out. Then Moore made a hit and was brought in by Russell's base hit, making the score, Bangors 14, Newports 13. Russell stole third and it looked favorable for a tieing of the game. Barnes hit a hard one to Hamlin and an error meant another run, but Hamlin made a fine throw to first and the third man was out, with the score one ahead for the Bangors.

The visitors are a gentlemanly appearing team on the field and play a square game. They are hard workers and hard hitters. B. Barnes in left field made a fine running catch and White gave his batting record a boost and Young batted hard.

The Bangors did not have their strongest team by any means, several of the best players being unavoidably absent, but they played a lively game.

Hamlin's playing was a pleasure to see. He is a fine catcher and throws to bases in magnificent shape while his batting is a terror to opposing pitchers. Haynes did some lively base running and amused the crowd with his pleasant smile. Dolan caught a plucky game, while Crosby played his position faultlessly. Nickerson played five innings, making two fine hits. Flynn covered a large amount of territory and ran bases like a deer. Cluff did excellent work at second and got two hits. Smith, Cluff and Crosby made a good double play.

Maney only adds to his reputation as a twirler every time he plays and Bangor ball crowds want to see him pitch every game. Hamlin umpired perfectly but Young made two very bad decisions.

Notes.

The Bangors will go to Newport on Saturday next to play a return game with them and an interesting contest is expected. The home team will make a desperate attempt to win.

The Watervilles will play in this city soon. They are fine ball players, having a number of college and ex-college men who are lively players. The Rocklands will also play another game here before long.

Fairbanks, of this city, played right field for the Poland Spring team against the Lewistons Wednesday at Lewiston. The first time at bat he put the ball over the fence for a home run. He also got a base hit later in the game. Bangor is proud of Fairbanks. He will return to Bangor next week and play with the Bangors and then look out for fun.

The Poland Springs gave the Lewistons a great scare in Wednesday's game. The score was 10 to 6 up to the sixth inning in their favor. The final result was 16 to 10 in favor of Lewiston. Plaisted pitched for the Poland Springs.

MANY VICTIMS.

Cholera Infantum's Dread Record.

A Serious Time for the Little Babies.

Physicians Advise the Use of Pure Food.

Lack of Proper Knowledge Causes Suffering.

How the Health of Children May be Preserved.

Mothers of Bangor read what's here.

There is an epidemic of indigestion and cholera-infantum in this and other states.

Health Boards everywhere are reporting a startling fatality from cholera infantum.

Physicians say that in nearly every case the child is poorly fed and nourished and hence the disease.

"It is absolutely certain," says a physician, in one of the medical journals, speaking of the alarming summer mortality among the patients, "that the cause of this high death rate among infants is indigestion."

"At the beginning of summer, the best physicians agree in saying that pure food must be used for babies. That this warning did not reach every city and town in this and in Europe is evident in the high infantile death rates. But in those places where the newspapers published the discussions that were going on, large quantities of lactated food were sold, and this best of diets for children was used. The result is, and tables show that fewer deaths have occurred in those towns and cities where the larger amount of lactated food was used.

Comparisons of this sort are absolutely convincing.

August is a fatal month for the little ones, and unless lactated food is used, the local physicians say that the dreadful mortality and increasing sickness and suffering of children will continue.

The one safe plan is to feed infants on lactated food.

HEADACHE

There is danger in headaches. It is not simply the pain, but it is a warning of some other internal trouble. Hence it is not enough to take something to stop the pain. The medicine should be a remedy which relieves the pain and then goes on and builds up the stomach, blood and nerves, otherwise the pain will surely return.

Take Dr. Paul Baker's Grape Cure.

No matter, whether you are sick-headache, of nerves, or bilious or periodic, Grape Cure will relieve you. And it fully warrants people, who cannot explain how the compound works such marvellous cures, that it is to be one of nature's secrets. But the lucky combination of the grape extractive and the little seed, certainly does bring about splendid and wonderful cures. Yet not an atom of the usual narcotic drugs is in it, but simply herbal extracts and the grape Confection, a prolific source of headache, quickly cured. The use of Grape Cure tones up the general health and makes you feel stronger and more like work.

BREWER LOCALS.

Mrs. M. H. Gage, of Addison, has been making a visit in Orrington.

Mr. W. G. Lovell was in the city from Northport on a short trip Wednesday.

Miss Josephine Crosby has been confined to the house for a short time by illness.

Miss Nellie Pierce, of Portsmouth, N. H., has been visiting friends in this vicinity.

J. B. Reed, Esq., of Portland, has been visiting relatives in the neighboring town of Orrington.

Miss Horne, of Lynn, Mass., who has been visiting in this city and Northport, returns to her home to-day.

Mrs. Charles Bodan has gone to Corinth and Charleston for a visit with friends and relatives in those towns.

Capt. and Mrs. Arthur Pierce and their sons, Messrs. Edward and Arthur Pierce, of New York, have been visiting in Orrington.

Quite a number of the members of Pine Grove Grange went to Field's pond yesterday in teams for a picnic and enjoyed the day greatly.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary A. Dixon, of Holden, was held yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, from her late residence in that town.

A tramp was before the municipal court yesterday and was sentenced to serve 60 days in the county jail and was taken to that institution.

Master Vernon Maling, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Maling, is critically ill with typhoid fever at his home on Union street. The many friends of the family will hope that he may recover.

About the most plentiful object now is the grasshopper. It seems as though the fields were fairly alive with these little creatures and it has been a very long time since they have been so numerous.

Messrs. A. F. Merrill & Co., of East Eddington, are tearing down what is known as their upper mill there and will erect another good sized plant for the site of the old building. The firm does a large spool wood business.

The heat yesterday was of an intense nature and the day will pass for the hottest of the season thus far. The thermometer registered a temperature of 93 above or more in the shade and the sun's rays beat down without mercy.

The concrete walks that have been built at the various school buildings are a great addition to the grounds, both in appearance and utility. They are neatly built and will be a convenience that will be greatly appreciated by the scholars, especially in wet weather.

Mr. George McKay has in his garden a young orange tree which has blossomed. The tree was set out only last spring, and that it should have blossomed so soon is quite remarkable. It is only about a foot in height and Mr. McKay has some little curiosity to know whether it is going to bear fruit or not this year.

The dredger, which is working in the river has finished its first cut, from a point near Freeseil wharf down to a point below the Dirigo mill, and has been towed back to the starting place to begin the second cut. The big machine has been doing some rapid work of late, and progress has been good and delays of consequence few.

The City Council is having a long rest from meetings now, the interval that will elapse before another occurs being nearly a month. Up to this time during the present municipal year various important matters have necessitated meetings of the Council every few weeks, but from now out but few special meetings will probably be held and the sessions will be for the most part the regular monthly ones. The next is to occur on Thursday evening, Sept. 7th.

Mr. Leroy Chambers, of South Brewer, has expended quite a sum of money in making improvements to his two tenement houses on Main street, at that end of the city, and now has as a result two very neat and modern dwellings. The upper and larger one was put in fine shape some time ago, and the work of improvement, on the other has been going on recently. The building has been raised and received a new foundation, painting and other work has been done on the outside and the interior has had the attention of carpenters, paperers and painters, until it shines in its newness and is very pretty and comfortable.

The great heat of yesterday came very near causing a serious conflagration in the afternoon at Mr. A. G. Ray's store on Main street. The floor of the store is oiled and in sweeping sawdust is used. The sweepings, which consist mainly of sawdust, more or less impregnated with the oil, are kept in a box outside the building and the fierce rays of the sun caused spontaneous combustion and set the contents of the box afire. When discovered there was quite a little blaze in progress but water quickly extinguished it. It was fortunate that it was found as early as it was for with everything so dry as it is now a very bad fire might have ensued.

Illustrated Journalism.

A countryman who has been endeavoring to obtain some definite ideas about the royal wedding functions from the various illustrated papers supplies to me for help and enlightenment. "His bewilderment is natural." He finds in the first place that we seem to have a new Queen reigning over us, for her Majesty's features in the illustrated paper bear no resemblance to the authorized portraits of Queen Victoria. A still more remarkable fact is, that in the course of the festivities her Majesty seems to have continually changed her habiliments. One of the special artists shows her with an ermine train; another represents her with no train at all. Another shows her with a crown on her head; another appears to have seen her only a few minutes later in a bonnet. One picture represents the Queen and her guests all taking lunch at one table; another places them at different tables. One paper surpasses itself by two views of the route to the railway station, in each of which the royal coupe is accompanied with a totally different carriage, and different horses and attendants. I think Joan explains how these discrepancies arise. Probably some of the special artists despatched to sketch the wedding made their sketches at Henley.—London Truth.

A PHILOSOPHER'S OPINION.

Voltaire said to a beautiful young lady with whom he was dining, "Your rivals are the perfection of art; you are the perfection of nature." This could not have been said if the young lady was suffering from disease, and pain had left its signs on the features. Women who wish to keep beautiful, and be the perfection of nature, should use "Favorite Prescription" to assist Nature when needed, to correct irregularities, aid digestion and nutrition, and thereby clear up the skin, rendering it soft and beautiful. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only medicine for women's peculiar ills, sold through druggists, and guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case or money refunded.

FROM DANCING FLOOR TO SURF.

Men and Maidens in Honolulu Take a Swim During an Intermission.

Saturday evening I had the pleasure of attending one of the unique entertainments—a swimming party—that are a feature in Honolulu and are probably known nowhere else in the world. It was given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNilson, formerly residents of Kenwood, now of San Francisco. It was given at Waikiki, a seaside annex of the Royal Hawaiian hotel. The apartment known as the lanai looks directly upon the sea, the waves breaking beneath the windows and against the steps of the piazza. In the rear of the lanai is a large apartment for dancing, and opening from this an immense dining room.

The masculine guests were, with a few exceptions, officers from our own men-of-war and from the British corvette Garnet—handsome young fellows, who cleared their throats a good deal, curtailed their r's piteously, and danced with muscular vigor. They did not possess the case of manner peculiar to their American fellow officers, but were delightful.

There was first a waltz or two, then the party separated, disappeared and reappeared clad in bathing suits. The guests then moved in procession across the long pier, and the young girls, clasping their hands above their heads, leaped into the surf, accompanied by their escorts. They swam and dived in the clear water like mermen and mermaids. The southern cross rose above the horizon; palms were outlined in the moonlight against the clear sky; the surf dashed white foam against the reefs beyond the lagoon; the air was filled with the fragrance of a thousand flowers; the singing boys sat upon the pier, and their wild music made a fitting accompaniment to one of the strangest scenes I ever beheld.

After a time the swimmers repaired to their rooms, redonned their evening dress, and the ball went on as if it had never been interrupted. It was difficult to realize that the young women in their white gowns, lace-and French heeled shoes were the same whose white arms and bare feet had been battling with the breakers half an hour before. The dancing was followed by supper, then the waltzing and singing were resumed, and the morning was well on its way before the guests made their adieus and took their departure.—Honolulu Cor. Going Into the Animals' Cage.

"I never go into a cage of wild beasts unless it is absolutely necessary," said A. L. Holton, the veteran animal trainer. "In the first place, it is dangerous, and there is nothing to be gained by it. What is the use of risking one's life for nothing? I used to do it when I was younger, but I don't want to do it any more. Showmen once thought it was an attraction, but the people don't appreciate the danger of the performance, so that it is seldom done anymore. John Robinson will not allow any one to go on parade in a cage of beasts, and he is right. Do you know that during the season I am continually annoyed by men who want to go into the cages? A good trainer will not risk his life so foolishly, and it is only novices who take the fearful risk. Some people think there is a lot of money in it, but I know that most of the men now parading in cages are working for no more than $30 a month.

"Showmen offer no inducement, but often they will permit a man to go on parade with a don of lions if he insists on it and agrees before witnesses to take all the risk upon his own shoulders. They do it for glory, too. I don't see where the glory comes in. I used to own a cage of leopards that I raised from kittens. I went in with them for a few years, but when they got full grown I quit it. A fresh young man who was pining for glory insisted upon taking the place I resigned, to fill longer. He got the job, and one day the leopards tore him to pieces before a large crowd to the music of the calliope. They took him out just in time to let him die in the open air. Yes, it is very thrilling and very glorious. But I don't hanker for glory."—Cincinnati Times Star.

Curiosities About the Rhinoceros.

The rhinoceros is a beast of legendary and mythical associations as well as of storm reality. In the mythology of all the old world he figures very conspicuously, being worshiped as a god by the early Javanese tribes and lauded as the builder of the earth and the heavens by several East African peoples. The old Jewish Talmud declares that his skin is folded as a result of having been exposed 40 days and 40 nights to the waters of the flood. The waters of the great deluge were hot, according to the bard, where we read: "After that Noah sent forth the dove. The dove departed and without tarrying put her feet in the water. The waters of the flood were hot, and they scalded and pickled the legs of the dove. It was bad, and lame, and feathers would not grow on her legs any more, and the skin molted off. Now, doves which have red and featherless legs are of the sort which Noah sent forth."

This is only cited for authority to prove why the skin of the rhinoceros lays in folds and ridges. Certainly if the waters were hot enough to "pickle and scald" a dove's legs at the moment of contact, they would make the skin of a rhinoceros, too large for him, in the course of 40 days!

"But," you say, "why was he exposed in the waters of the great deluge while all the other beasts were safely housed in the ark?"

Simply because he was too large to be put aboard the great lifeship. The bulk of the old rabbinic writers agree that the rhinoceros floated along with the ark, but they disagree as to how the floating operation was performed.—St. Louis Republic.

Climate and Disease in Japan.

The European sojourning in Japan is particularly affected through his nervous system and his respiratory organs, as a result of the humidity and the abrupt changes of temperature. In regard to the respiratory apparatus it appears that the number of movements is augmented, and the tension of the aqueous vapor being very great that of the oxygen is diminished with resulting reduction in hæmatosis, thus opening the door to all maladies through depression of nutrition—from rheumatism and diabetes to gout and anæmia, which are everyday diseases in Japan. Contrary, in fact, to the general notion, central Japan possesses a climate exceedingly favorable to the development of anæmia.

Further, the climate of Japan, through its torrid heat, depresses the nervous system. Hence diminution of physical activity, enfeeblement of the cerebral faculties, followed by apathy, somnolence and complete prostration of the powers. In order to avoid the pernicious influence of the climate it is recommended that the foreigner spend the summer at the north, say at Yeso or in the northern Nipheu, where the climate is dry and invigorating. Otherwise the disadvantages named will, too certainly be experienced.—New York Tribune.

Women and Men.

Except in what is called the social world men and women meet very infrequently. The "plaint of a bright and brainy woman that she didn't know how to talk to a man, didn't know what would interest him, is too well founded. "Why," said another woman, "I was counting up the other day, and out of 140 married women whom I know personally not more than six or seven are happy. I've seen them change in their habitments. One of the special artists shows her with an ermine train; another represents her with no train at all. Another shows her with a crown on her head; another appears to have seen her only a few minutes later in a bonnet. One picture represents the Queen and her guests all taking lunch at one table; another places them at different tables. One paper surpasses itself by two views of the route to the railway station, in each of which the royal coupe is accompanied with a totally different carriage, and different horses and attendants. I think Joan explains how these discrepancies arise. Probably some of the special artists despatched to sketch the wedding made their sketches at Henley.—London Truth.

Parliamentary Humor.

Sir John Lubbock, M. P., gave an evening a pleasant entertainment to the members of the Working Men's College in Great Ormond street, by discoursing to them in an amusing and chatty manner on his "Reminiscences, Personal and Political." Sir John, and naturally a good deal to say on his experiences in parliament and was bound to admit that the palace at Westminster was not exactly a paradise—at least all the people in it were not angels. There is, it appears, not much humor there, and it is a general mistake to suppose that any which exists is monopolized by Irishmen. At fact, Sir John thinks that Irishmen do not shine as humorists, and he is inclined to "give the cake" to the much despised Scotchman, who, if they cannot see a joke, at least perpetrate a great many. For instance, it was a Scotchman who gravely informed the house that the vote of £2,000,000 for the Afghan war was a "mere flea bite in the ocean," and another remarked, "You may depend upon it, sir, the 'pale face of the British soldier is the backbone of the Indian army." The strongest piece of humor ascribed to an Irishman was that of a young member who rose to speak and remained standing for nearly a quarter of an hour, expressing his unuttered arguments with profuse gesticulation. It was in every sense a speech without words, and yet he made it sufficiently clear to the house that he was "agin the government." Sir John thinks that the gentleman was speaking simply to himself, but in the interests of absentees he was talking aloud.—London Telegraph.

Frost Resisting Mortar.

Whenever mortar is used during the cold weather, there is always more or less fear of injury from frost, and masons are accustomed to use salt water in mixing the cement and to cover the green masonry with straw and boards during the night. The engineer of the Western railway of France, Charles Rabut, says the ordinary soda of commerce is even better than salt. The soda employed is what is known as the anhydrous carbonate obtained by the Solvay process, which costs less in France than the hydrated carbonate. This is dissolved in a kettle in the proportion of a pound of soda to 3.4 quarts of water at a temperature of about 85 degrees Fahrenheit. This solution is mixed with an equal volume of water at the temperature of the air, to give the water which is used by the masons. A kettle holding 13½ quarts has been found sufficient to serve 15 masons.

The mortar made in this way requires more of the solution, than if water alone were used, about one-quarter more being considered the proper increase. Mr. Rabut reports that with this solution mortar has been observed to harden at a temperature about 9 degrees below freezing with at least twice the rate of a similar mortar without soda at a temperature 14 degrees above the freezing point. While the surface hardens much more quickly, however, the interior remains much longer, and on this account the soda is objectionable. Moreover, it has also found to cause a white efflorescence on the surface of the masonry which lasts for some months.—New York Telegram.

Quick Ways to Clear Land.

By the exercise of skill, much hard labor may be saved in the clearing of land. In this section land is cleared of small timber under four inches in diameter by the following method: Take a log four feet in diameter and 10 feet in length with the bark off. Have each end nicely rounded, leaving a good size knot in the center, to which a log chain can be attached. Fasten a pair of heavy mules or horses to the smaller end, and fasten the end to the tree to be taken up, about 6 to 6 feet from the ground. Now drive around the tree, and as the roots are loosened from the soil cut them, with a sharp ax. It is surprising how quickly a job can be gotten out thus, many of them in less than 10 minutes by the watch. The object of the log is to bring the draft down to where the team can get at it.

For larger trees, over 30 inches in diameter, block and tackle must be employed, which will take somewhat longer. Trees can be gotten out by the roots in about the same time it takes to cut the tree down. March is the best month to clear land, as the ground is soft, and with a steady team and three active men good progress can be made every day.—Baltimore American.

Colorado's Tonic Atmosphere.

Among the people of Colorado are very many who say that it is customary for eastern folks to let their regard for the coal keep warm until the moment comes when they seriously consider the idea of leaving Colorado. At that juncture they replace for the first time the mantle of the mountain air and find it has upon them. Few indeed ever seriously think of leaving it after one such consultation with themselves. But I must say it is a very queer ale. It keeps every one keyed up to the trembling point, inciting the population to tireless, incessant effort, like a ceaseless breathing in of alcohol.

It creates a highly nervous people, and as one man said, "It is strange to fancy what the literature of Colorado will be when it develops its own romancers and poets, so strong is the nervous strain and mental exhilaration of the people."—Julian Ralph in Harper's.

The Funny Man Subsided.

A number of pretty well known men happened to meet in a club one evening last week, and after awhile the conversation drifted to religion. Each one told his denomination.

"I'm a Congregationalist," said one.

"And I'm a Methodist," added another.

"And I'm Presbyterian," said a third.

The would-be funny man, who is always present in a crowd, turned to the waiter, who was just then serving out refreshments, and asked:

"And you, what are you, Pat?"

"Oim an Oirishman," replied Pat, and the funny man subsided.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Precious Pair.

"His bride is a jewel" was said of the woman who begged for the release of her lover, who had stolen the money she had saved for her trousseau, and having secured his release married him. Perhaps she was a jewel: if so, she must have been an emerald the size of the Kohinoor. To pursue this charming simile it is greatly to be feared that Courage will turn out to be an opal.—New York World.

The Value of Solitude.

Solitude, the safeguard of mediocrity, is to genius the stern friend, the cold, obscure shelter, where mute the wings which will bear it farther than sun and stars. He who would inspire and lead his race must be forbidden from traveling with the souls of other men, from living, breathing, reading and writing in the daily time worn yoke of their opinion.—Emerson.

Handling Crockery.

A merchant was anxiously watching the terrible pitching and tossing which his case of Dresden ware received, and recounted his early experience: "I was employed as a clerk in a crockery store at $60 a month with the understanding that I was to pay for all I broke. I lasted in that establishment just one month, and at the end of my time had to pay the proprietor $4 for the privilege of quitting." That is to say, I had broken $64 worth of crockery in the month. I then went into the hardware business, but in a few years drifted back into crockery."—New York Tribune.

USED THEM IN HIS BLOW-GUN.

Doctor—"Well, my fine little fellow, you have got quite well again. I was sure the pills I left for you would cure you! How did you take them, in water or in cake?"

Boy—"Oh, I used them in my blow-gun."

The little fellow put the nasty, great, griping, old-fashioned pills to good use. At most, all his internal economy needed was a dose of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, easy to take, and perfectly efficient, or actively cathartic according to size of dose. As a laxative, only one tiny Pellet is required.

The "Pellets" cure Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels.

The "Pellets" are purely vegetable, and operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the cheapest pill, sold by druggists, because they are guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or their price (25 cents a vial) is refunded. Can you ask more?
